SEPTEMBER PROGRAM Our Legacy and You!

September 17th, 9:30 AM to noon: All Club members are invited to join a Legacy status discussion and planning session at the Lawshe Memorial Museum in S St Paul. Discussion topics are on page 5. The Club will provide coffee, muffins, and sweet rolls.

Background: In October 2005, Richard 'Ole' Olson asked the Club's Board to document our Information Technology history. Volunteers formed a committee consisting of Club members and LMCO employees. The first meeting was January 2006 at the Charles Babbage Institute (CBI) where we set objectives of gathering artifacts and career summaries plus a goal of publicizing unknown stories of ERA and heritage companies. We started <http://www.vipclubmn.org> to make our stories public, then we did the 2008 Minnesota sesquicentennial displays. When LMCO decided to close their Eagan facility, Dakota County Historical Society (DCHS) agreed to become an artifact repository and permanent exhibit of our artifacts and pictures. Club volunteers began the arduous task of identifying thousands of images.

Current Activities: Through the fund-raising efforts of Dale Weeks, the Minnesota High Tech Association (MHTA), et al' - Twin Cities Public Television (TPT) began documentary development about Minnesota's role in the Information Technology industry. TPT interviewed two dozen industry pioneers, half with direct heritage company experiences.

TPT is now in the second phase of documentary production. The Club board is in contact with TPT, our intent is to have an open house preview of the documentary in September or October. As we go to press a date and venue is yet to be set – stay tuned!

Future: At the September 17th meeting, we'll plan the Legacy parts of the 2020 VIP Club's 40th Anniversary celebrations. Send a note before 13 September to board@vipclubmn.org if you plan to participate.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Grandpa? Have you ever answered the phone with a “Hello, and heard a childish voice saying “Grandpa” or “Grandma”? Of course, the natural response is to say “Evelyn” or whatever the name of your most likely grandchild might be. Once you’re engaged, there will follow a tale of woe that will end with an urgent and perhaps believable plea to send some money (usually secretly) to some odd place to rescue your grandchild from something bad.

Of course, it’s a scam, but it’s a successful one. I personally know of people who have sent thousands of dollars to Canada to “rescue” a grandchild. I have received the “Grandpa” call, and I played along, answering with the name of a fictitious grandchild. It was an elaborate scam, involving a callback from an “attorney” in Mexico. They dumped me as soon as I showed the slightest resistance to paying. When I called the Sheriff’s office to report the scam, they said I was one of several hundred who had reported the same issue in the preceding week.

So, what does this have to do with the VIP Club? Over the past few months, several board members have received real looking emails from some other member, requesting some form of emergency payment (usually gift cards) with a promise of future reimbursement. While these have occurred occasionally in the past, they seem to have markedly increased of late.

You all need to know that the club doesn’t do business that way. All club expenditures are authorized in advance by board action. There is no circumstance where an “emergency” disbursement is approved. If something were to pop up (which has not happened so far), the board can react quickly via an email meeting – without board approval, no action is authorized.

The club has a website, with some contact information exposed to the public, including to scammers. Many of you also have an online presence, which enables similar exposure. The consequences of this exposure, making all of us targets, have become a fact of modern life.

So, if you get an email from someone who wants you to run out and send some money, don’t reply, trash it. When you hear “Grandma” on the phone, hang up or, if you feel frisky (rhymes with risky), ask who they are calling. Never give out anything related to your persona or respond to an out of the blue contact. Report scams to authorities or your Internet or phone provider, but in my experience, you’ll get a Ho-Hum response. The much advertised “Do Not Call” registry is ineffectual. As they used to close the morning briefing on the old Hill Street Blues TV show, “Be careful, it’s a tough world out there.”

On a happier note, come join us at our first Happy Hour get together at Jensen’s. Sept 18th from 1-4 PM. Hors d’ oeuvres are on us. No gift cards required, no wire transfers to Mexico, just an opportunity to get together. Cash bar – Drop in when you can and enjoy the company of fellow retirees who probably won’t hustle you for money.

Harvey Taipale, VIP Club President.

SOCIAL REPORTS & ARTICLES

Picnic next year? We’ve had many, many positive comments about the Eagan venue. And, a suggestion that we include a tour/visit of the adjacent UNISYS facility. Next year’s board will take this and other feedback under consideration.

October 22, 2019 – Happy 99th to Millie Gignac!

Looking for an Outing? While the VIP Club has not sponsored many tours or group outings; many of you enjoy these activities with senior living communities, community groups or other organizations. If you're looking for ideas, check out <https://www.mnfieldtriplibrary.org>. This site has a comprehensive listing of tour organizers and attractions, many of which are also open to individuals.

Human Interest Stories: Our newsletters need articles to offset the continuing dearth of obit reports. As an example, Director Gish Devlaminck found a story about Judith Drenth, an LMCO co-worker. Her story could be an inspiration to each and all of us.

Judy started working for Sperry Air Traffic Control in Eagan 34 years ago as a software engineer. Over the years she has worked numerous defense programs such as Marine Air Traffic Control System (MATCALS), V-22 Osprey, YF-22, and P-3C Orion. She has worked at several locations. i.e. Vallejo & Los Angeles, CA; St. Louis, MO; and Owego, NY. Now, she is still working for Lockheed from her home in Burnsville.

A synopsis of the 20 June John Gessner article is: "Judy never considered herself to be athletic, but at the age of 40 she decided that weighing 190 pounds was too much. Joining a fitness club, she shed weight and developed a passion for power lifting, a sport distinct from the weightlifting with its "overhead press."

Twenty years ago, feeling sort of 'blah' and stressed while working long hours for Lockheed Martin, she joined Bally's Total Fitness in Eagan. Two years later at the age of 42, she entered her first competition then on her first "Deadlift" she set a state record. Judy placed first at the USA Powerlifting nationals last October in Spokane, WA.

That earned her a spot at the International Power lifting Federation's World Class Powerlifting Championships in Heisingborg, Sweden June 4th, 2019. As one of the five competitors in her division she won the gold medal for bench press with a lift of 132 pounds. Her total of 606 pounds for the three powerlifting competitions (deadlift, bench press and squat) earned her a silver medal plus bragging rights as the world's No. 2 in her division; behind Edith Guennec of France, who bested Drenth's dead lift with a world record.

Judy said, "One of my Minnesota friends that trains at Southside Athletic in Burnsville said, 'I feel bad that I broke your Minnesota record.' I replied, 'Don't feel bad. It's a positive sign.' What it means is women are really getting into the strength training earlier and focusing on this. I said I expect them to be broken."

Congratulations to Ms. Drenth on her accomplishments outside of the defense industry workplace. Thanks to Gish for sharing the article with us.

If you have something to share about a former co-worker, email it to newsletter@vipclubmn.org.

LEGACY TIDBITS

Help Request: I am trying to help the battleship USS Iowa radio gang find information about their Sperry-Rand AN/USQ-69 data terminal (Sperry S-2049 I think). They would like to hook it up for communications demonstrations.

Visiting the Charles Babbage Institute (CBI):

Professor Elizabeth Semler is teaching a summer class, Technology and American Culture. On July 10th the class met at CBI for an introduction to documenting and archiving technology as presented by CBI Archivist Amanda Wick. Liz and Amanda led the class through the CBI storage facility beneath the Elmer L. Andersen Library, home to the U of MN's Archives and Special Collections research center.

1. Liz is at the right, telling students about the CBI storage facility.

In three areas of the classroom, the students wrote reports about some technology folders; technology history books; and an artifact area with couple of hardware calculators, an electronic logic wiring game, and this nonfunctional Apple II Machine.

The Students also looked at a few pre-selected technology history boxes in the archives. Page 7 has some snapshots of the archive contents.

Ms. Semler had requested help from the Legacy Committee, Lowell Benson brought a DOS based processor from the Lawshe Memorial Museum – shown here. The boot disc floppy unfortunately failed to read half-way through the class thus editing via the CRT and keyboard weren't demonstrated. ☹️

2. Sperry Model T3067 suitcase unit.

Snapshots from the Charles Babbage Institute's Archive Area.

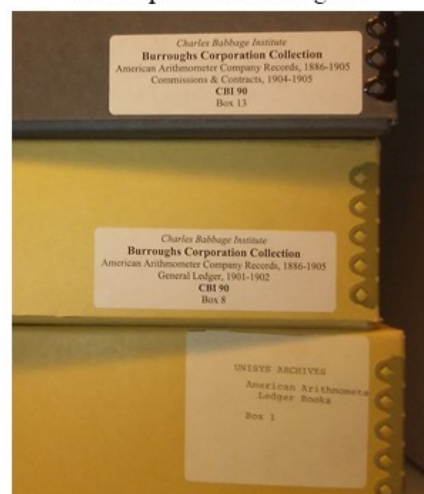

John Westergren coordinated donations of many pallet loads of documents collected by the Legacy Committee from Lockheed Martin, UNISYS, Sperry Defense Systems, UNIVAC, and ERA retirees.

The Honeywell versus Sperry Rand patent nullification papers are historical – the CBI collection includes a few hardware artifacts used during the trial in the 70s.

The Carl Johnson papers cover the Sperry/UNISYS Micro-1100 development technologies.

Dr. Peter Patton papers are from his UNIVAC and U of MN careers. In the 70s, he did AN/UYK-7 enhancement studies that aided the AN/UYK-43 cache memory architecture design.

Burroughs and UNISYS ancestry tracks back to American Arithmometer Co., 1896.

The CBI racks and stacks of archive boxes are all in a sub terrain limestone cave beneath the U of MN west bank campus.
