REPORT, WEB SITE REVIEW

This is the thirty-fifth in the newsletter ‘Article-for-the-Month’ review series for Club members without immediate internet access. By Lowell Benson

In September 2012 we posted 50 Years of Airborne Anti-Submarine Warfare \(ASW\) Experience - A slide set from Les Nelson with comments by Lowell.

- UNIVAC, St. Paul (predecessor of LMCO Eagan) experiences began in 1963 when we were contracted to deliver a modified airborne ADD 1000 computer to NADC as the first digital mission computer project. We were also contracted to do the mission software.
- In June 1965 we delivered the CP-823U, an NTDS software compatible airborne computer and an AN/USQ-20A for compiler support.
- In September 1967 we shipped the 1st CP-901 computer to NADC. - S/N 499 shipped in 1992, a 25-year AN/ASQ-114 systems production run! We developed P3C ASW software at St. Paul, MN; Johnsville, PA; Patuxent River, MD and Burbank, CA.
- Bob Pagac, retired LMCO program manager: “In 2012 there are still 40 CP-901s flying on Japanese P3C search & rescue missions.”

The original ‘application’ software was written in 30-bit NTDS compatible code. The current application software is written in ADA 95 C/C++.

The ADD 1020, the CP-823, and CP-901 hardware used hardwired logic. The current hardware has embedded micro processors (Sparc and PowerPC) executing Solaris VxWorks DII COE runtime software. The first CP-823 and CP-901 code was generated with the CS-1 compiler. Current software is generated with the AdaMulti compiler.

Our Airborne ASW history is more than the P3C systems reviewed in the five slides provided by Les Nelson:

- We developed the hardware (AN/AYK-10(1832)) and systems software for the carrier based, Lockheed S3A.
- We developed the software for the Canadian Aurora program which used the P3 aircraft with an 1832 computer.
- We’ve tailored P3C systems for the Japanese, Australians, Norwegians, Dutch, etc.

In October 2012 we posted UNIVAC Computers I Have Known by Dr. George Champine. Paragraphs are copied here: “I joined Univac directly out of college in the spring of 1956. I stayed for 22 years, leaving in December 1979. The following is a summary of my early work at Univac in the Defense Systems Division. I transferred to the Commercial Division in 1970.

My first job was to do numerical analysis and programming for Project 2052—the world’s first airborne computer. The project was called ‘Project 2052’ for reasons that I don’t remember. It could be because the project was started in 1952. The project was to build an airborne digital computer that would accept signals from the aircraft radar to get the location, speed, and direction of the target, and then point the tail gun on the airplane, which was a B-24. Because of weight and power restrictions, the computer used a special architecture that was a Digital Differential Analyzer, which computed the change in values rather than the entire value itself. The computer had a small drum storage device and a 64 word core memory of one bit per word. It had a serial arithmetic unit. As I recall the computer was about one cubic foot and was operational in the summer of 1956.

The design of the computer was done mostly by Seymour Cray, who was a quiet, soft-spoken engineer/mathematician who stayed mostly in his office and developed the specifications. Cray had left the project before I joined the project, but I met him several times.

Most of our design and software development work was done on the Univac 1103 computer Serial 7 [the second generation after the 1101] housed in the old glider factory on Minnehaha Avenue. This machine was unique in that it was the first 1103 with a core memory in place of an electrostatic memory. Later it was called the Univac Scientific when it got hardware floating point. It was an immense vacuum tube super computer that occupied a room of 1,000 square feet. It was one of the largest computers in the world of its time. It had a main memory of 1024 36-bit words, and a drum memory of 16,000 36-bit words with paper tape input and output. The architecture was two address and ones complement. To print the output we had to run the paper tape through a Flexowriter, which had a paper tape reader and typewriter output. The memory drum was about 24 inches in diameter and about four feet long. The computer weighed 17 tons and required 45,000 watts of power. It could carry out 50,000 operations per second (such as an addition).

Subsequent to my leaving the project, the computer and my software were installed in a B-24 and flown successfully that fall somewhere in Texas. I learned many years later that it was the world’s first airborne digital computer. I wish that I had known it at the time. I returned to college in the fall to continue working on a Master’s degree in physics during 1956-1958. As part of getting the degree, I took the qualifying exam for a Ph.D. in physics. I passed the exam and was invited to continue on for a Ph.D. Through my work at Univac I knew that I wanted to go into computers and not physics, so I declined.”

In 1958 George returned to UNIVAC to work on the Nike-Zeus system and other systems. He also has written about those experiences – too long to include.

VOLUNTEER RECOGNITION BREAKFAST AND YEAR 2012 VOLUNTEER SURVEY RESULTS

On April 17th the VIP Club hosted the Volunteer Recognition Breakfast for the VIP Club members who performed Volunteer Services in 2012. The Breakfast was held at the VFW Club in Roseville (Breakfast photos taken by Nick Benson). A total of 101 Unisys and Lockheed Martin retiree members who responded to the Newsletter survey donated 21,181 hours to various charities in Minnesota, Arizona, Illinois, Texas and Wisconsin. Forty seven members and guests attended the Breakfast. Robert Hanson,

Bob Hanson & Bernie Jansen

VIP Club President welcomed the attendees and Bernie Jansen, VIP Club event-chairman chaired the overall Program; he summarized the survey results recognizing all volunteers. He noted that the estimated value of the reported Volunteer Services contributed by VIP Club members for the year 2012 was over $468,000.

Lockheed Martin Corporation was represented by John Westergren, Retired Senior Program Manager. John addressed the group in behalf of the Lockheed Martin IS & GS Eagan Facility. (The LM Site Manager, Scott Schmidt is expected to be available as the LM rep. for future events.)

The Unisys Corporation was represented by Chuck Lefebvre, Director of OS2200 ClearPath Programs.

Chuck thanked the Volunteers for their significant volunteer efforts and the image they portray of the Corporation.

Bernie Jansen

Following the Management comments, Dale Phelps introduced several volunteers who described their volunteer activities in 2012, noting their personal satisfaction involved with these efforts.

Dick Lundgren and Harvey Taipale of the VIP Club Legacy Project summarized the significant progress made over the past seven years. They noted that the relocation of the Legacy documentation artifacts such as Patent Applications to the Charles Babbage Institute was nearly completed in December 2012. Harvey discussed the relocation of the Legacy hardware artifacts to the Dakota County Historical Society Lawshe Museum in South St. Paul in December 2012. Harvey noted that the cataloging effort of thousands of legacy photos destined for the Babbage Institute which was not completed at LM last December is now an ongoing weekly effort at the Lawshe Museum and more volunteer help is needed. (Contact Harvey if you would like to help with this project.)

The excellent Program brochure was again prepared by Joe Schwarz, our Newsletter editor. Thanks are also due to Frank King who helped compile and acknowledge the 2012 Survey inputs received via Email and the website. Thanks also to Lowell Benson for pre-printing the name badges for the Breakfast and to Millie Gignac and Kathy Jansen for greeting and checking in the attendees.

Kathy Jansen & Millie Gignac

GOLF The combined Unisys - Lockheed Martin golf league, now called the Unified Legacy Golf League (ULGL), has restructured because of the loss of members due to Lockheed closing most of their activities in Minnesota. We now have 2 leagues at Emerald Greens, 1 at Phalen, 1 at Bunker Hills, and 1 at Valleywood. Additional individuals or teams are still welcome to join us. Members can be current or former Unisys and Lockheed employees, their relatives, and friends. We will have tournaments starting in late April and league play starting in early May. Contact Keith Behnke, keithbhbk@comcast.net, if you are interested and I will connect you with a League Rep. or team Captain.

If you are willing to exercise your planning and leadership skills, please contact me or John Westergren or Bernie Jansen. We are in need of someone to lead the Display Setup project at the Lawshe Museum.

Phase I, 2013: Cataloging the collection and recruiting volunteers to - ascertain which items to use, how to use them in an exhibit, skills needed to stage a demo scenario, and which hardware is duplicated.

Phase II, 2014: Preserving the Legacy - Exhibit planning, artifact conservation, research support.

Phase III, 2015: Exhibit construction, digital asset creation, educational programming development.

These efforts are independent of the ongoing Photo Identification project presently led by Harvey Taipale.
